Investment Objectives

The Fund aims to provide participants with a medium term level of return with a premium of 2.5% against money market instruments, by investing in at least 70% of their global net value in mutual funds' participation units. The Funds will preferably be funds with absolute return objectives, that is, funds whose investment objective is to obtain positive results regardless of the direction of the markets. Due to the use of differentiated investment strategies and the purpose of creating alpha, these funds usually have a low correlation with traditional stock or bond markets.

Investor Profile

Being of medium risk, the Fund is suitable for moderately conservative clients in view of the risk, but who wish to increase the value of their investments in the medium/long term and with a wide diversification of their applications. The Fund is intended for clients willing to invest for a period of more than 3 years.

Manager comments

In May, risk appetite returned, with investors reacting positively to progress in the tariff war, whether in the form of retreats, pauses or even bilateral agreements. Allied to this positive sentiment, the presentation of new stimuli in China and the Trump administration's tax plan (Big Beautiful Bill) also supported the stock markets, which appreciated significantly, while credit spreads narrowed. On the other hand, US public debt lost its latest AAA rating, fuelling a new rise in interest rates in a context of growing scrutiny from the markets.

What helped the Fund:

Cash, Corporate Debt, Equities and Absolute Return Funds

What harmed the Fund:

Nothing to report.

Perspectives for the Fund:

The fund's tactical component is positioned to benefit from the return of public and private debt, in a framework of monetary policies divided between fears of inflation and recession. In the US, the confusing tariff policy seems to be giving way to expectations of greater deregulation and fiscal impetus, while European stock markets continue to be supported by investment plans in infrastructure and defence. In this volatile and challenging environment, the absolute return funds component, through diversifying and de-correlated strategies, seeks to add value.
